Are We to Have Electricity Here In Smethport?

The Borough Council is Putting Forth Every Effort to Find Out if Possible Whether The Town Shall be Properly Lighted With Juice—A Post Card Has Been Mailed to Every Family to Vote Upon.

If Smethport can pull through with the electricity here, it will be a movement to still better the little town, and one which is a most discussed subject that has been going the rounds of the town ever since last week when the Borough Council had a post card printed, asking that every one interested in Smethport please fill out and mail back to the council without delay, so that the council could get busy with the proper authorities and to quickly get electricity in your home where it is much needed. That Smethport will never amount to any more until we have electricity, is the one thought now.

If you think the matter over carefully and then mail your card to the borough they will be able to figure out how much juice will be needed for the town to consume. That the town needs more light is a foregone conclusion and it will be most convenient in your home for many things. Many will think, perhaps that their taxes will be boosted high in the air by getting electricity, which is not true—your taxes will amount to very little more at the end of the year than at present and whatever that would be, will surely be worth it in the long run, just in having something that is worth it in the house—a power that will light up your entire home with a simple touch of a button.

Many will say: "Why didn't we get it before?"

It is just like the street paving that was carried on—it took a few hustlers with a little backbone to pull the job, but when it was finely completed the same cry went up And some that never gave even their good will toward this project, now claim "I helped to put that work through," So just be a booster in your own home town and get this electricity project through as quickly as possible and be one of the real "I was in on that proposition," which will be noteworthy of you until your dying day, so sign your name and let the Borough Council know your views at once.

Be a booster in your home town now.

If this project goes through it will cover the whole town on every street and not just on Main street as some people are sure to think, but on every side street, that each one may get the benefit alike. If you choose to have electricity it will be there for you to put in your home and if you choose differently why, it is not compulsory. The people over the river will not make a mistake in signing their card, as it has been pointed out that they shall all share alike in this proposition and you have for advise a number of men who are posted and will give you the desired information as to the construction, cost, etc., for electricity, also anything that you may desire in regards to taxes, the one thing that seems to be a stumbling block to many. Enlighten yourself today by asking a whole lot of questions and getting entirely familiar with the electric light situation.

Mr. F. H. Biever, the congenial secretary or any one of the members of the Borough Council will assist you about this proposition just for the mere asking.

Be a Booster in your home town.

Breath Taking Aerial Stunts Prove Thrillers

Parachute Drop From an Airplane Some 4,400 Feet in the Air is a Feature of the Exhibition.—Thousands Were Attracted to the City to Witness The Two Dare-Devils in Action.

C. G. Buton, aerial daredevil and Parker G. Cramer, aviator extraordinary, made good with a vengeance in Punxstawney, Pa., Saturday afternoon. A crowd variously estimated at from 8,000 to 10,000 persons saw the two daredevils engineer an aerial stunt program that was a thriller from start to finish says the Punxstawney Spirit.

Despite adverse weather conditions the entire program was put through, with the danger to the stuntsters increased a hundredfold by a 25-mile gale.

A parachute drop from an airplane was the first thriller of the program. It was scheduled to begin at 1 o'clock but in getting away from the landing field the plane had a minor collision with a tree and small repairs were necessary, with the result that it was 2 o'clock before the plane apeared over the city. After three complete circles of the city had been made to gain the necessary altitude, Buton left go with his parachute when the plane was 4,400 feet in the air. He dropped less than 50 feet before the big parachute opened. The descent was a breathtaker for the big crowd that watched it. With the daring stunster swinging in a great arc, due to the heavy wind, and occasionally spinning like a top in cross currents of air, the reascent of the big parachute and its human burden was slow but its drift to the the big parachute and its human northeast was fast. The descent of burden was slow but its drift to the northeast was fast. The descent took a trifle less than eight minutes and Buton came to earth about two and one-half miles from the spot over which he let go. He was dragged a considerable distance by the parachute after his feet hit the ground but beyond a few scratches was not injured.

While an automobile hurried to the spot where the daredevil had landed. Cramer put his airplane through a series of decidedly thrilling stunts. At an altitude of more than 4,000 feet he made a dozen or more loops, negotiated several Immelman turns, spun earthward in a nose dive and gyrated in a "falling

Travelers' Club Held Meeting On Saturday

Prof. Bright Gave Very Interesting Talk—Vocal Selections Were Rendered— Interpretation in Aesthetic Dancing by Miss Hogarth.

At the regular meeting of the Travelers' Club last Saturday, Prof. Stanley Bright gave an interesting talk on "The Rating of the Public Schools of Pennsylvania and Their Needs." Mr. Bright is a fluent and easy speaker and his topic was of particular interest to the group of women who heard him.

A petition for legislation to provide necessary funds for the advancement of our schools was circulated at the meeting and signed by all the members present. Following Mr. Bright's talk, a paper entitled "America's Place in Music," was read by Mrs. Leon Hogarth who called upon Miss Grace Olmsted to illustrate by vocal solos two of the compositions of a famous Pennsylvanian, Charles Wakefield Cadman. Miss Olmsted sang his version of the Indian Melody "Far off I Hear a Lover's Flute," and his pathetically beautiful song, "Memories" in a most pleasing manner, accompanied by Dorothy Hogarth. Mrs. Sidney Burdick then played McDowell's, "To a Water Lily," while Miss Dorothy Hogarth gave its interpretation in aesthetic dancing. The dance was beautiful. Miss Dorothy entered into the spirit of the music and showed those present that McDowell's "To a Water Lily," as rendered by Mrs. Burdick is really a poem.

The entire program was highly appreciated.

A rising vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Bright and the young ladies who asisted Mrs. Hogarth in demonstrating America's place in music.

ST. PATRICK'S DANCE WAS MUCH ENJOYED

The St. Patrick's dance held under the auspices of the Modern Woodmen of America which was held in Quirk's Hall last Thursday night was one thoroughly enjoyed by young and old and showed old time spirit. One young lady had planned a brand new Easter gown for this occasion, but up to the last minute said gown was not forthcoming and so she was game and wore the old one, and this is the way we get it: She said, "Gosh, I never had a better time in my whole life." Over $150 was realized and the Woodmen desire to thank all for their patronage.

Miss Hamilton is Mentioned in The Leading Feminine Role for a Play to be Given in College, the Title of Which is "The Man Who Married A Dumb Wife."

We were reliably informed that State College would have a play in April and among those mentioned for the cast of characters is the name of Miss Katherine Hamilton, a well known Smethport young lady, which will be received with much interest to her many friends and acquaintances here at home. The title of the play, is "The Man Who Married The Dumb Wife." It has in the leading male part, Arthur E. Heimbach of Allentown.

Miss Katherine Hamilton, is the daughter of Dr. Robert Hamilton. She was a graduate of Smethport High School, and was very popular in social circles at home.

Boy Scouts Lend a Hand Got 49 Trees

The Boy Scouts, Guided by Scout Master Dr. Livermore Ably Assisted by George Warner, Ostrander, McBride and Mr. Keesler Succeeded in Planting the Trees in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Saturday morning ten Boy Scouts accompanied by Messrs. George Warner, Porter Ostrander and McBride set out for a trip to the woods, where they secured forty-nine (49) maple trees. At noon Mr. Fred Green sent his team for the men and Scouts who loaded the trees on to the wagon. Mr. Keesler of the Rose Hill Cemetery Association marked the places for the trees. Then the willing workers dug holes and planted forty-nine trees. The work accomplished on Saturday seems almost unbelievable. Next Saturday the Scouts propose to have a clean-up and grade-up day. Smethport Boy Scouts are very fortunate in their leader, Dr. Livermore. He knows boys and they are as proud of their Scout Master as he is of his boys. They are so willing to "lend a hand" upon all occasions. The men, Messrs. George Warner, Ostrander, McBride and Keesler deserve much credit for helping along this important work. Mrs. Fred Green has been untiring in her efforts to make Rose Hill cemetery one of the best kept cemeteries in the state. The people of Smethport are most generous in contributing to this worthy cause. Donations from far away friends have also been received. Now we are to have a Community Day, when the grounds out side the fence will be carefully cleaned up. Let us hope that every man, woman and child will "lend a hand" and "do their bit." Anyone who has not already subscribed to this worthy cause may send subscriptions to Mrs. Fred Green, King street there is no reason why the Silent City on the hill should not be beautiful.

"Through purple shadows that darkly trail
O'or the Ebbing tide of the unknown Sea,
I shall fare me away, with a dip of sail
And a ripple of waters to tell the tale
Of a lonely voyage, sailing away to mystic isles,
Where at anchor lay the craft of those who have sailed before,
O'er the unknown sea to the unknown Shore."
And few who have watched me sail away,
Will miss my craft from the busy bay;
Some friendly barks that were anchored near,
Some loving Souls that my heart held dear
In silent sorrow will drop a tear,
But I shall have peacefully furled my sail
In mooring sheltered from storm and gale,
And greeted the friends who have sailed before
O'er the unknown sea to the unknown Shore."

Editor of the McKean Miner:—

Dear Sir:

Have you room in your paper for vote of thanks? I feel that we owe our Smethport papers, both Miner and Democrat a vote of thanks for their cheerful help to boost any good work in which the women of the community are interested free of charge, which is a great help and means more to the work than a very large subscription. Thank you.

"A WOMEN VOTER."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

Some Interesting Items Taken From The Files of THE MINER 45 Years Ago.

HOW CUSTER WAS KILLED

Mr. Angus MacDonald of Colville, Pa., has arrived in Victoria, British Columbia, according to the Guardian from a tour in northern Montana and the Rocky mountains. He says that much smoldering excitement prevails in the minds of interior Indians concerning the Sioux War. The Sioux had reported to their camps that they had killed since the war begun up to the middle of July four or five hundred men. Big Rain was the chief who killed General Custer, but his body was not mangled because he was clad in a hunter's leathern suit, whence they took him to be some brave accidental stranger out with the troops. While General Custer was running his second man through the body with his sword he was shot by Big Rain, the Sioux Chief, in the head. Mr. MacDonald thinks that whatever help the United States troops achieve from auxiliary Indians is in the long run, undermined by the bad impression it leaves on the Indians's mind of the imbecility, treachery and want of fair power on the part of the white man to whip him.

The Editor of The Miner in 1876 was Mr. H. F. Barbour.

Republicans nominations for office were as follows: President—Rutherford B. Hayes; Vice President, William A. Wheeler; Congressman, John I. Mitchell; State Senator, C. H. Seymour; for representative, C. H. Foster; for Associate Judge, F. N. Burnham and G. M. Smith; for Jury Commissioner, J. E. B. White.

Mr. A. Tumser, late of Smethport has opened a new Tailor Shop at Farmers Valley, near the depot.

Mrs. H. M. Patterson is now ready to show her patrons a new stock of the latest styles of millinery goods. These goods are fresh from New York city, and selected very carefully. Call and look at them ladies.

Dr. H. L. McCoy arrived home from the Centennial last evening, and announces himself ready to enter upon his professional duties with renewed energy. All calls will be promptly and faithfully attended to as usual.

Work has been resumed on Hamlin & Son's law office and it will be finished speedily.

Clara Hamon Acquitted of Murder Charge

JURY WAS OUT ONLY FORTY MINUTES, AGREEING UPON ACQUITTAL ON THE FIRST BALLOT.

Ardmore, Okla., March 18.—Freed of the charge of murder for the shooting of Jake L. Hamon by a jury's verdict Thursday, Clara Smith Hamon Friday was planning to leave Ardmore, the scene of her ten years' association with Hamon which culminated in his shooting last November. She probably will go to Wilson, 13 miles west of here for a short visit with her sister and later proceed to El Paso, where her father is seriously ill.

After a trial lasting a week, the jury in Hamon case debated its verdict only forty minutes agreeing upon acquittal on the first ballot.

"I am the happiest woman in the world," Clara Hamon said, with tears streaming down her face when she heard the verdict. Mrs. Jake L. Hamon, the widow, who attended nearly all sessions of the trial, went home when the jury retired, and members of her family said she had not yet been told the verdict.

The state's final plea attacked the theory of self-defense on which Clara Hamon's case had been built, but less than an hour after Attorney-General, S. P. Freeling had made the final address in the trial, the defendant was receiving the congratulations of scores of attendants at the trial.

"HARDWARE GIFTS ARE USEFUL GIFTS"

NEWS from the WORLD of SPORTS

Babe Ruth's highest ambition is to make 75 homers this season.

Ping Bodie, famous outfielder of the New York Americans, a few years ag while playing ball on the Pacific coast with Los Angeles, nearly killed a lion with a batted ball. It's longer ago than Ping would like to admit that he played baseball, he smacked one against a Los Angeles hurler. Being on foreign ground the fans let out a roar of anguish and discontent as the ball went over the fence.

A peaceful, law-abiding lion, slumbering in his cage in the adjacent zoo, came to bat with a roar even more audible when the ball boomed against the top of the cage. The dismal moan of the beast led fans to believe Ping had killed the animal, and such was th enews printed in all the Pacific coast papers the next day.

While Ivy Olson of the Brooklyn National League base ball team, and his wife were at luncheon Saturday an unindentified man walked up to teh clerk's desk in New Orleans at the hotel where they were stopping, and asked for the key of Ivan's room. He got it went too the player's room, packed up clothes and other valuables belonging to Olson and his wife and left.

Announcement was made Saturday that "Heinie" Groh, hold out third baseman, returned to Cincinnati Saturday from Rochester, N. Y. He said he intended to stay there on his chicken farm until his terms were met. President Hermann of the club declared Groh had never submitted terms to him.

A Rough Rider in Near East Relief Refugee Camp, Batoum

According to the relief workers who worked among them in Batoum, these refugees lived the life of wild animals, sheltered in crude tents made of household goods, and eating only what was furnished them by the Relief Organization and the Greek Government.

THREE BULLETS PIERCE BELFAST MAN'S BODY.

George Seeley, Taken to The Olean Hospital —Fired Shots Himself he Claims.

Olean, March 21.—George Seeley, 22 of Belfast, who was brought to the Olean General hospital, early Sunday a. m., will probably die of a bullet wound in the head, and two in the body, it was said.

Seeley, it was reported, himself fired the shots. It was alleged his action was with suicidal intent.

After months of misery spent waiting in the Refugee Camp in Batoum; where the majority of them were kept alive only by the efforts of American workers of the Near East Relief, approximately 60,000 Greek Refugees are reported in latest cables to be starving and almost naked at Salonica.

Most of these Refugees were formerly prosperous Greek farmers in the Kars district of Armenia and in the regions of Anatolia bordering on the Black Sea. Some were recalled to populate lands reclaimed by Greek military activities from the Turks, others were driven away fro their homes by Turkish Nationalists.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT IN ROULETTE THURSDAY

Ralph Decker, Principal of Roulette High School Held for The Action of Grand Jury.

Ralph Decker, principal of the Roulette High School was arrested last Thursday on the complaint of Clara Morgan for an alleged assault upon the person of her son, Walter Rose says the Coudersport Enterprise. Mr. Decker appeared before Justice Thompson, Saturday afternoon and following a preliminary hearing he was held under $200 bail to await his appearance before the Grand Jury at the June term of court. The bail was promptly furnished by M. C. Burt of Coudersport. The Commonwealth was represented by Attorney F. A. Stebbins and Mr. Decker by A. N. Crandall.

It appears from the evidence that the Rose boy with three other young sters had for some time been in the habit of sc pping to and from s lou' which they had been repeatedly forbidden to do by their teacher, Miss Maude Lyman. Following a last offense they were sent to the principal who punished the boys via. the rubber hose. Because of the impudence the Rose youngster was given a double dose, causing marks to appear upon his body, and as a result his mother, Clara Morgan, had a warrant sworn out for Prof. Decker's arrest. The Justice at Roulette refused to issue a warrant and therefore Justice Thompson was sought out.

THIRD SKYSCRAPER TO BE ERECTED IN OLEAN THIS YEAR

Olean House Going up at Least Seven Stories; Will Have 300 Rooms and Bath.

Olean's third skyscraper is to be started in a short time. The northern portion of the Olean House will go up three more stories toward the zenith, making it a seven-story structure.

Plans are being made for the Olean Improvement Company, owners of the Olean House block for this extensive addition as well as for extensive changes throughout the hotel. The Olean Improvement Company, as is generally known here, is really H. W. Marcus and his several sons.

Mr. Marcus states that at least three stories will be added, giving thereby a hint that the completed plans might posibly show more than that in which event the skyscraper would be more than seven stories in height.

The extra stories will be added to that portion of the hotel directly over the stores of Baker & Gelder, Harvey & Carey and Oppenheim's and will afford an increase of about 150 rooms The new hotel will have a total of about 300 rooms with bath and running water.

The plans include a new electric elevator and many other improvements for the betterment of accommodations and service. The 150 rooms of the present hotel are already being redecorated and refurnished.

Mr. Marcus was unable to state just how soon work would be commenced on the addition to the hotel, but indicated that it would be as soon as plans could be completed that would be satisfactory to the Olean Improvement Company.

EXPRESS MESSENGER IS SHOT TO DEATH ON TRAIN

E. W. McNally, Well Known Here Is Murdered Near Jersey City While Acting On Guard On Erie Run.

Bradford, March 18.—Word was received by American Railway Express officials here Thursday that E. W. McNally, an express messenger well known in this city and in Salamanca, had been murdered by car burglars near Jersey City late Wednesday night or early Thursday morning.

Mr. McNally, who traveled between Salamanca and Jersey City, was a friend of J. W. Scanlan, well known express messenger, of this city, and visited Mr. Scanlan at the latter's home here last summer. Mr. Scanlan informed The Era last evening that information had been received as to the details of the murder, the telegram stating simply that McNally had been shot and killed by car burglars.

The ill-fated messenger left Salamanca on his last run, Wednesday noon, as an express guard on Train 14, due to arrive in Jersey City about midnight. It is understood that Mr. McNally was killed somewhere between Paterson N. J. and Jersey City.

Mr. McNally's home was in Paterson, but he had made Salamanca his headquarters, between runs, for the last three years.

THIEVES ENTER MT. JEWETT PASSENGER STATION AND ESCAPE WITH $20

No Clue is Found But Work is Believed to be That of Amateurs Theft Discovered by Night Operator.

Thieves gained entrance to the office of the Mt. Jewett passenger station early Saturday evening and escaped with $20 in cash and currency, which they took from the cash drawer. No clue was found upon which to base an investigation.

Entrance was gained from the waiting room, which is never locked. The window into the office was forced and the thief could then reach inside and unlock the gate.

The theft was discovered at 11 o'clock when the night man went on duty. Hurried inspection disclosed that only the money till had been tampered with. The safe was untouched. It was learned that the safe that night contained a larger sum of money than had been left in it at night for many months, possibly years. There was $6,000 in currency in the safe.

The fact that the safe was not tampered with leads officials to believe that the work was that of amateurs and some one possessing knowledge of the station and the hours of the employes.

The thieves evidently did not desire to take any chances in passing pennies as they left fully a hundred in the cash drawer. Detectives Monday followed every possible theory in the hope of finding a clue that would lead to the arrest of the guilty persons.—[Kane Republican.

Binghamton Publishers to Teach Young Folks Business.

Binghamton, March 18. — The Morning Sun resumed publication Thursday morning following its suspension March 3, when the Binghamton printers declared a strike. The Sun announced that in the future its composing room would be open to any man or woman boy or girl, who desired to learn the printing trade or had knowledge of the trade and desired a position. Special reference was made to world war veterans who had received federal vocational training in printing and who had been unable to obtain positions. The Binghamton Press in its initial issue Thursday night carried a similar announcement.

The striking printers remain firm and continue to issue the Binghamton Advocate each morning.

The publishers say that their force of linotypers and compositors is being daily augmented by non-union printers from all part of the country.

Moore, who is the Manager of the Binghamton Morning Sun has been waiting his chance to turn out the Union Printers from the Sun. He has been known to have been in New York to meet Non-Union workers at least a year ago to get advised about the proposition.

Anyway we doubt if any blue law scheme that might be adopted would succeed in suppressing the kiss. The germ theory couldn't do it.

Olean Youth Admits Breaking Into Hardware Store at Cuba

The arrest Thursday morning of George Boughton, 19 years old, a laborer of Olean, rounds up the gang of youthful robbers, who have been working in towns near here says the Olean Herald: Three others were arrested Thursday night near Eldred by Sheriff Adolph Bluestone of Allegany county, Leslie Coon, P. R. R. detective of Olean and O. T. Swelgaert, Erie railroad detective of Salamanca. They are as follows: Andy Campbell, John Serena and Lee Foster.

When questioned by Sheriff Bluestone and local authorities following his arrest, Boughton after putting up a stubborn denial that he took any part in the robberies, is said to have finally broken down and confessed telling the story from beginning to end.

Pulled Cuba Job.

Local police say Boughton confessed that he and members of the gang broke into the Bartlett Hard- mitted that an Ingersoll watch and a chain found on his person were stolen from the Cuba store.

The youths are alleged to have staged other robberies in Scio, Belmont and Larabee. Police say they started their work on February 3, and robberies have followed since at intervals.

The gang met its Waterloo, when Boughton is alleged to have stolen a quantity of jewelry from a Scio store and to have given a Scio girl some of the jewels. Believing her lover to be honest to the core, the girl flashed the jewels, a ring and a necklace and walked right into the store from where the jewels had been stolen. The proprietor recognized the jewels at once, and not long afterward police were working on the case.

Sheriff Robinson now has four new faces in the county lockup. They are John Serena, Andy Campbell, Lee Foster, and George Bouton. It is EDITORIAL.

In an article on the many desertion cases in which a wife and children are left in want and distress, the Chester Morning Republican says: "What the remedy is for this state of affairs is not plain. The state manifestly connot guarantee any woman that the man she marries shall always have employment, or that having employment, he will devote his earnings to her care and that of their children. However, it does seem possible that men contemplating matrimony could be compelled to show ability to maintain a family at the time of marriage.

Thoroughly commendable is the course of the Administration in keeping hands off railroad wage dispute, at least unless and until some acute emergency occurs. The law has provided ways and means for dealing with that dispute, which should be fully employed and tried, before resort is made to anything else. It is altogether erroneous and pernicious to ignore a law or to seek to evade or to annul it by appealing to some other power over its head without giving it a fair trial.

Human generosity and chivalry could no further go, even at the hands of gallant Frenchmen, than in the act of General Gaucher of the French army at Seuss, in placing memorial wreathes upon the graves of German soldiers, both of the War of 1870 and the World War, with the tribute, "They died in obedience to military orders." The magnanimity of the deed was the more emphasized by the conduct of the German civilians who witnessed it, who removed their hats while the wreathes were being placed and a prayer was being offered, but instantly clapped them on their heads again the instant a band began playing the Marseillaise." Only the narrow Rhine is the boundary between the two peoples but the whole range of humanity is the distance that separates their souls.

President Harding has the distinction of being the first practical newspaper man to become President. Or perhaps we should say that the newspaper profession now enjoys for the first time the distinction of having one of its members made President. Other Presidents have, however, dabbled in journalism, and some of them have used the press during their terms of office as Mr. Harding certainly will not. Thomas Jefferson and James Madison were the founders of a newspaper, and the former controlled a newspaper as the organ of his Administration during his term of office. Andrew Jackson went further, and actually founded a paper, after his inauguration, to be his personal organ. Martin Van Buren was one of the owners of a newspaper, which the party organ during his administration. Since 1841, however there has been no such connection between the Presidency and the Press, and it is not likely to be hereafter.

We may probably credit to the women of New Jersey the final passage of an act creating a State Constabulary service, similar to that which has proved of so great value in other Stat. This has long been needed and has long been desired, but its establishment has been defeated year after year by the opposition of organized labor. Even this year, when the enactment of the measure was evidently certain, desperate efforts were made to restrict the constabulary system to those counties in which there were comparatively few large industrial establishments. The pretense was a fear that the constabulary would be used for the oppression of labor in strikes. That is true only in isolated instances; and, of course, precisely the same argument could be used for the abolition of the police force in all large cities. For lack of a conbstabulary system or some effective means of protection, rural New Jersey has ing been the happy hunting-ground of innumberable petty criminals. So, on securing political power as voters, the women of the State promptly made it clear that, whatever strike-inclined union might or might not want, they purposed to have their homes protected. It was a good day's work.

THE ORIGINAL BOOSTER

Benjamin Franklin, who was the early exponent of the idea of thrift in this country, carried a mighty cheerful lesson in optimism for the hosts of the blue brethren who are periodically likely to see the future of the county surrounded by clouds of gloom. Ben left a rather voluminous record of his views upon various topics, being a printer-man, and given to writing. In his autobiography he says: "There are always croakers in every country boding its ruin."

He cities the case of a Philadelphis citizen who was always complaining that his home town was a losing proposition and declined to take the risk of buying a home in it.

"At last I had the pleasure," writes Franklin, "of seeing him give five times as much for a house as he might have bought it for when he began croaking."

Franklin was always an optimist in cases where the growth and prosperity of his country and its communities were concerned, and the trait served him well. Even in the days of the revolution when things looked black for the infant republic, Franklin's optimist soul was not daunted. At that time he wrote "The Internal State of America" in the spirit of one who saw only the glowing promises of the future, and he was everlastingly right about it.

Franklin's optimism was not of the waiting variety. He was willing to take off his coat to go to work for his home town on any and all ocasions. When business was bad he went out and made it better, and when the growing city needed new institutions he helped to create them. he was the watchman upon the walls, but he din't confine his activities to watching; he prophesied properity and helped to bring it about. And the pennies and dollars he saved and made were devoted to the upbuilding of the institutions that afterwards counted so heavily in community building.

Franklin is a decidedly incouraging figure to hark back for the American citizen who tires at his job and sees the future through blue spectacles. Business—good and bad—growth, progress, these things he saw pass around in a circle like a wheel, and in the bad seasons Franklin saw the encouragement ahead. He was a decidedly servicable citizen to have about, and the nation should now have more men of his stripe.—[Seattle Post—Intelligencer.

Selected Verses

THE OLD SCHOOL BOOK.

On the old school book, in its dusty nook,
With a tearful eye I gaze;
Come down, old friend, for an hour we'll spend
In talking of the bygone days.
I gaze once more, as in days of yore,
On the task that vexed the brain;
The lesson done, and victory won,
And I feel I'm a child again.

And I seem to stand with the youthful band
In the old house on the green;
I hear the fun 'ere the school begun,
And I join in the gladsome scene.
I take my place with a sober face,
O'er the well carved desk I bend,
And hourly pour o'er the learned lore
Of thy wonderful page, old friend.

Then our cares were few, and our friends were true,
And our griefs were rare and light:
The world was nought (so we fondly thought)
But a region of pure delight.
But time has sped, and our path has led
Through the dark and tearful scene:
And passed away are the good and gay,
Like the old house on the green.

But we'll sing no more of the days of yore,
For the tear drop dims the eye:
Sleep on, old book, in thy dusty nook,
As in years that have glided by;
No guilt we trace in thy honest face,
But a mine of gold within
Enriched the youth, as they sought for truth,
In the old house on the green.

—GEORGE.

BREATH TAKING AERIAL STUNTS PROVE THRILLERS.

leaf." The heavy wind added materially to the thrill of his evolutions and the big crowds that lined the streets, the open spaces and the roof tops breathed a sigh of relief at the successful completion of each stunt.

The wing walking was scheduled for 4 p. m., but in the hope that the heavy wind would die down it was postponed until 5 p. m. At that hour the wind had not abated a bit but the aviators were determined to put across their entire program and promptly at 5 p. m. the plane swung back over the city at an altitude of about 1,000 feet with Buton standing upright far out upon the tail of the plane with his hands folded. On the next turn over the city he crawled to the under-carriage and hung from his toes, head downward and arms swinging free, as the plane bumped through a heavy wind. On the third turn he walked out upon the lower wing of the plane and went through a number of breath-taking stunts.

It was the intention to do the wing-walking at an altitude of about 300 feet so that all might be given opportunity to see every phase of the exhibition but owing to the heavy wind it was deemed wise to stage the stunts at a higher altitude.

The thrilling series of daredevil stunts took on added interest owing to the previous disappointment when the exhibition had to be cancelled because of an accident to the plane as it was leaving the field at Clarion, Saturday with a veritable gale blowing Cramer took the plane out of the landing field near Fairview, risking wrecking his plane rather than take a chance of disappointing the big crowd that the advertised thrillers had brought to town. In the face of strenuous opposition the daredevils put their exhibition across, taking considerable loss in cash than the same stunts had ever before been staged for, purely because they wanted to show the residents of this vicinity that they "had the goods" in the aerial thriller line.

Buton and Cramer filled every detail of their contract and pleased the big crowd of spectators immensely. Every phase of the exhibition aws top notch and when Punxs'y or towns of this vicinity seek aerial thrillers in the future they will turn to Buton and Cramer.

Parker C. Cramer is well known in Bradford and has spent some time in Smethport. His mother, Mrs. F. D. Cramer lives on East Main street.

LITTLE THOUGHTLETS

STYLISH.

We haven't any bread at home; we haven't any meat.
About the house we famished roam in search of things to eat,
But in the house no crust we find; a void in every bin

Our cellar boasts of not a filtch; we haven't any pie,
Nor any other means with which our pangs to satisfy,
Of butter, not a single pat, of herring not a fin
Have we on hand. But what of that? It's stylish to be thin.

LOCAL MENTION.

The Mistaken Robin.

On March 5th, a Spring-like? day,
A robin came to Smethport, Pa.
Fred Masser saw him first, a sittin'
on a rail,
His head beneath his wing, his sorry looking tail drooping dejectedly.
He'd wrapped his wings around his feet,
To keep away the snow and sleet.
His gladsome trill had frozen on the air,
To herald Spring—his mission
there—
Was falling miser'bly.

His voice grew hoarse, his song a moan,
His eyes were wat'ry, his breath a groan
And children passing by to school,
Said "Sure, that robin is some fool!"
And watched him pitifully.

The Cupids defeated Cook's famous Colts team of Coudersport last Wednesday evening—score 33 to 29. The Coudersport team had not lost a game up until they met the Cupids. The game was played in Hodge-Stone Memorial Hall

The Smethport High School team played the Ludlow High School meeting with a defeat, however the game was speedy and full of thrills, which kept the crowd dancing the most of the time. The Ludlow team is composed of some clean players and perfectly capable of playing a fast game at all times. The first half was close and the boys had a good chance of overtaking their rivals, but low and behold that bunch came back with more determination than ever thus completly swallowing up our boys. This game completed the home schedule of the High School Team for the season of 1921.

The game of basket ball played between the Delicia team of Elmira at Lyceum Hall and the Smethport Cupids proved rather to easy for our home boys they winning by a score of 31 to 50. There was a large crowd present to see the game. Delicia team was good at times but lacked the necessary team work to cope with their older brothers. The team also lacked weight. Cagwood, playing left guard for the Delicia team scored most of the points, he getting 8 field baskets. McMahon of Elmira scored 6 field baskets which is a prety good nights scoring for any one individual. The Cupids all played an excellent game and ran the score rather high. Josephson led the procession with about enough points to almost beat the Delicia team alone in a regular game. L. Hull, "Ted" Smith, Malcomb, Kohn and Bobbie Hull played their usual good game.

A few panels of Beaver Board, a little wood trim, a hammer, nails and saw—all you need to cover up old cracked plaster and wallpaper and put new life into any part of the house.

Beaver Board plays a major part in this worthwhile operation. While it is covering up unsightly cracks and dingy wallpaper it is providing a surface for painting and decorating, and ending the wall and ceiling question once and for all time.

Beaver Board is built up into large flawless panels from strong, pure wood fibres. When you have lived with it you will know why it is displacing lath and plaster in new houses and putting new life into old ones.

Odell Writes to Jurors Who Convicted Him

STRANGE MENTAL SLANT REVEALED IN LETTERS FROM SING SING DEATH HOUSE

Rochester, March 18.—From the triple-barred "death House" at Sing Sing Prison, James Louis Odell, sentenced to die for the murder of Edward J. Kneip, has given utterances to a "De profundis." To each of the jurors who stood up and declared him guilty of murder, first degree, he has addressed a letter, and as the subject of psychological study it is interesting to a high degree.

Twelve of the leters have been received in Rochester and so far as is known the text is identical in each case. The communications are penned in Odell's laborious hand and are written on prison stationery. One of the letters just received reads as follows:

"Hoping you will please pardon me in taking the liberty of writing this letter to you, but I would like to say a few words at this time while I have got the chance. I want you to know there is no personal ill will on my part, for I have always tried to live up to the best I know how, never allowing myself to entertain a grudge against any human being. But after all there must be hard blows to faith, otherwise faith would not grow, and the individual must take the risks of life, for he lives in a world of law and chance, and some of us are subject to all the risks which go to make up life. The Bible teaches us there is no crime worse than seduction, and it is one of our duty to shield any woman's claim to virtue, [illegible] no fathers, for it [illegible] a fact that the young girl is also [illegible] daughter of some other man, and [illegible] than God that I can truthfully [illegible] that I have never once violated the chastity of a young girl and there is no woman living who can honestly say I have ever harmed a hair of her head, and I must have been demented had I ever ceased for one second to have such an unbounded esteem and respect for every man's daughter. I am not saying what the world owes me, I do claim the right as every other man does, and that is to be met half way, and all I can say now is I hope this great misfortune will help men and women in similar cases to place a higher value upon a woman's soul. I honestly hope you will never have the heartache and suffering that has come to me. I only hope that you and your family may have success and happiness through life, and may you live to enjoy their love, comfort and companionship. With sentiments of esteem, regards,

JAMES L. ODELL.

Whether the letter is the forerunner of a request to the jurors that they sign a petition for Odell's commutation is not known, but when it was shown to a well known Rochester attorney, he said, "That is the clearest evidence of paranoia I ever saw in any criminal case. I cannot for the life of me see why Mr. Shaffer in his defense did not plead insanity instead of letting Odell say that Pearl delivered the death blow!"

The following definition of paranoia is quoted from Webster's dictionary: "A chronic form of insanity characterized by very gradual impairment of the intellect systematized of persecution, homocidal tendencies. In its mild form paranoia may consist in the well marked crotchetiness exhibited in persons commonly called "cranks." Paranoiacs usually show evidence of bodily [illegible] degeneration and may [illegible] hallucinations especially of sight and hearing."

The Odell letter quoted above appears to support to a certain extent the declaration of Webster. Odell is said to have dwelt at great length on what he called his "duty" to avenge the alleged wrong to Pearl, his wife. In press interviews he constantly dwelt on this phase of his case. If the idea was a delusion it was clearly mandatory with him as he appeared to feel himself divinely commissioned to avenge outraged innocense.

The physical part of the definition, also appears to fit the Odell skin; somewhat emaciated; extremely nervous, "crotchety" to such an extent that Pearl admitted that her life with him was almost unbearable owing to his frequent wrenching of her arms and abusing her.

Paupers Live Like Princes Royal

Former Millionaires Who "Went Broke" Are Cared for in Sumptuous Fashion by Unique Will.

Paupers live like princes as the only members of one of America's most exclusive clubs. Eight millionaires or men of wealth of bygone days made penniless by an unkind fate are passing their last days in dignity in the luxurious James C. King club, of Chicago.

Membership in this club is restricted to those who were once extremely wealthy, but who were forced to the wall and pauperism by unfortunate financial operations. All the guests of the club were invited after a full investigation of their former financial rating was made. Applications for membership are never acted on. Those who dissipated their millions are barred.

The club building is a palatial $1,000,000 structure and is maintained by a fund of $5,000,000 left by the late James C. King for that purpose. The furnishings are the most luxurious the King millions could buy. Every member of the club has a private apartment. Libraries, billiard halls, gymnasium and writing rooms are provided for the guests. The members elect their own house committee, which runs the club. Gold-braided flunkies snap to attention at the command of the members.

Guests are spared the embarrassment of visits of the curious. Only friends of a member may visit and then only after a cross-examination of the door. Members of the club do not discuss their former lives. They take great pride, however, in belonging to the club. To them it means they once achieved greatness in financial and industrial circles even though they were ruined in seeking new worlds to conquer.

MERRIMENT MARKS EASTER AT ROME

Impressive Church Ceremonies Followed by General Rejoicing.

The year's at the spring and Italy again celebrates Holy Week. It is principally in Rome and Venice that the sojourner's interest centers—about the historic plazas of St. Peter's and St. Mark's.

In Rome, if you would gain entrance into the great cathedral of St. Peter, you must rise before daybreak. Only women will be allowed seats within the church this morning and to gain the privilege they must be veiled in black and wear garments of somber hue. Long before the hour for service the edifice is packed, hundreds of belated visitors being turned away.

At nine o'clock the papal regiment enters and makes room for the pope's guard, which, with other ecclesiastics, enters and takes up a position among the diplomatic corps. About 9:30 the music peals forth impressively, the soldiers present arms, and then the pope, attired simply in white, is carried in on his chair of state. As he proceeds, up the aisle he blesses the devout congregation to the right and left.

At the close of the impressive service you are borne down the great aisles by the surging congregation and with them are belched from the doorways into the teeming plaza. There on all sides you hear cheery greetings in the musical Italian tongue and are more than likely to come upon every acquaintance you have in Rome.

The Jubilation at Its Wildest.

Pre-lenten ceremonies are elaborate. Maskers throng the streets throwing confetti and engaging in every form of jubilation, the young people having by no means a monopoly of the funmaking. All sorts of pranks are played and much horseplay indulged in, all of which is taken in good part.

Riderless horses are turned loose with fireworks tied to their tails to race madly down the corso. The closing revel is termed the "moccoletti" when everybody carries a lighted candle and each person tries to blow out the camile of his neighbor. Some carry bellows for this purpose and others use handkerchiefs and towels. The streets are a blaze of light and the festivities of the evening continue for about two hours. Then a bell strikes to signify that the carnival is ended, a cannon booms from the castle of St. Angelo and for six weeks thereafter the city is transformed into a scene of solemnity that is not broken until the dawn of Easter Sunday.

Northern Easter Menu.

In Norway and Sweden the peasants include a cured ham in their Easter menus, and eat it with tansy pudding in commemoration of the bitter herb eaten at the Paschal feast.

EASTER DAY

Weep not beside His tomb,
Ye women unto whom
He was great comfort and yet greater grief;
Nor ye, ye faithful few that wont with Him to roam,
Seek sadly what for Him ye left, go hopeless to your home;
Nor ye despair, ye sharers yet to be of their belief;
Though He be dead, He is not dead,
Nor gone, though fled,
Not lost, though vanished;
Though He return not, though
He lies and moldere low;
In the true creed
He is yet risen indeed;
Christ is yet risen.
Sit if ye will, sit down upon the ground,
Yet not to weep and wail, but calmly look around.
Whate'er befall,
Earth is not hell;
Now, too, as when it first began,
Life is yet life, and man is man.
For all that breathe beneath the heaven's high cope,
Joy with grief mixes, with despondence hope.
Hope conquers cowardice, joy, grief;
Or at least, faith unbelief.
Though dead, not dead;
Not gone, though fled;
Not lost, though vanished,
In the great Gospel and true creed,
He is yet risen indeed;
Christ is yet risen.

—Arthur Hugh Clough.

LOVELIEST OF ALL EASTER FLOWERS

In the Candidum Lily Southern Europe Has the Finest and the Oldest.

Lilium candidum, a native of southern Europe, was introduced in 1596, making it the oldest lily in cultivation. It is not only the loveliest of lilies but the hardiest of the white lilies.

Great quantities of candidum lily bulbs are grown in the warm climate of southern France, and these bulbs planted in the autumn do not stand severe winters well, while bulbs from northern France can be depended on to thrive in our climate if properly treated.

Queen of the Lilies.

Ben Jonson referred to the madonna lily when he asked: "Have you seen but a whyte lillie blow?" Maeterlinck said of it: "The great white lily, the old lord of the gardens, the only authentic prince among all the commonalty issuing from the kitchen garden, the ditches, the copses, the pools and the moors, among the strangers come from none knows where, with his invariable six-petaled chalice of silver, whose nobility dates back to that of the gods themselves—the immemorial lily raises his ancient scepter, august, inviolate, which creates around it a zone of chastity, silence and light.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Pagan Traits Remain.

Complete separation of Christian festivals from the pagan celebrations that preceded them has proved difficult. Our term "Easter" is strictly pagan, for example, being named in honor of the ancient Norse goddess of Spring, Ostara. The term "Lent," is derived from the old Saxon word Lencten, signifying spring, and the festivities of the carnival period are no doubt a persistence of the festival spirit in which our pagan ancestors used to celebrate the return of spring. All these things seem to bear out the declaration of Ulysses: "I am a part of all that I have met," for in spite of centuries of civilization some of the pagan traits of our prehistoric ancestors still abide with us.

All Have Significance.

Lovers of flowers may be interested to learn that the entire Episcopal church calendar may be counted in bloom from the Candlemas lily to the Glastonbury thorn on Christmas day. —London Tit-Bits.

FAITH AND HOPE, EASTER MESSAGE

Promise of Immortality Most Glorious to the World of Humanity

Sorrow and loneliness and bleak winter come to the entrance of the cold, dark tomb.

And, lo! the tomb is bright with light supernatural! The all-glorious Angel of the Resurrection stands within it!

They thought it the grave of life.

It is really the womb of the morning, all a-glitter with the sun-rising of a new and better day.

The tradition of Easter is a holy one. The Feast lacks the merriment we have learned to associate with the Nativity, but the Resurrection is to the full as essential to the Christian faith.

Christmas is a season of joy, of blithesome cheerfulness at the advent of the Savior. To a world sobered by its Gethsemane and Calvary, Easter brings a message of Faith and Hope, the essence of the religion mankind needs.

Mankind has passed through the Agony culminating in and symbolized by the little white cross. Heavy-hearted we are still inclined to seek solace at the tomb. To us the message comes again: "Why seek ye the living among the dead? He is not here; He is risen."

Therein lies the message of Easter; the promise of immortality beyond the tomb.

Nor is it a mere coincidence that Easter falls at this season. Spring is simply Nature's way of reiterating the Easter message. Through the long winter months the world of Nature has seemed asleep in death. Trees bare, fields destitute, death appeared to reign supreme.

Then, just as we are almost wearied enough to give up hope, the sap begins to run, little green things to shoot, birds to chirp as cheerily as ever.

It is Nature's message of immortality to the world of humanity.

There is another and a wider aspect of the Easter message. We seem to be standing by the tomb of much that is holy. Religion, belief in principle, idealism, how dead they seem to be! Seeking only material things, neglectful of things of the spirit, the world is in a parlous state. The few who have held their beliefs look about in perplexity and dismay. Has the very body of the faith been removed? Ah, no. In the midst of our anxious grief comes the reviving, heartening assurance: "He is not dead; He is risen."

Ever the Easter festival comes around—after the inevitable Agony—and every spring the magic words are spoken and we go forth clad in invulnerable armor for the fray, for "He is not dead; He is risen." So shall we other men also rise!

SERVICE ON EASTER MORN

Impressive Ceremonies Annually Carried Out on Summit of Mount Rubidoux in California.

The famous Easter pilgrimage to the cross on Mount Rubidoux, near Riverside, Cal., heralded all over the country for its sincerity and beauty, was the conception of Jacob Riis, who inaugurated it several years ago. The service is nonsectarian and makes a universal appeal, as prayer at sunrise is a racial expression as old as the impulse of the heart to bow to God in nature.

On Mount Rubidoux.

The cross, which stands out so clearly in the morning light as the thousands of voices are raised in song, is on the location of the one planted on the mountain by Father Junipero Serra, the famous old mission padre, whose good works in the Eighteenth century are considered the beginning of civilization in the land which now [illegible] fornia.
